

Our Spring Campaign

By W. H. MEREDITH

THAT "Big Week" has come to stay with Seventh-Day Adventists is very certain, because of the remarkable stories that can be told concerning it. Big Week began with the idea of opening new branch publishing houses and book rooms, preparing new translations and books in new territories, and the work has continued until to-day the Fund is helping, beside the interests already mentioned, new hospitals, clinics, dispensaries, nursing homes, schools, colleges, etc., scattered among many nations and peoples the wide world over. If it had not been for the Big Week plan, it is possible that the great majority of these facilities would not have been in existence. Who, therefore, can measure the good that has been accomplished? Who will ever be able to tell in this world what Big Week means to the finishing of this work? The more we think about it, the more we know of its operations, the more sure we are that this is a God-given plan which will stay with us until the work is finished.

This year a new feature has been added to the operations of the Big Week Campaign. The sum of £10,000 is to be set aside for paying the salaries of 299 native workers in different parts of the world field. These men are to be chosen from among the tried natives who have already proved themselves to be efficient soul-winners and faithful Christians. Those of us who have had the opportunity of seeing and meeting some of these native workers can vouch for their earnest Christian character and integrity in the work of God, and we have no hesitation in saying that many of these natives well deserve a place in the ranks of the workers of this cause. We could scarcely think of anything that would have a more striking appeal to the hearts of our people, did they know these men themselves, than the fact that their efforts during Big Week would go to help pay the salaries of such men. As we think of the wonderful work already accomplished by the Big Week effort, and the plans for further work in the future, let us endeavour to make the coming campaign one of the best.

The call is to workers and churchmembers alike. None should excuse himself from this campaign; none need fear or falter, for the results and blessings that accrue from the work itself will more than repay the efforts put forth. All the workers in the cause are invited to give at least one day's wages towards the Fund and to spend some time in selling our literature, giving the profits also to the Fund. Our churchmembers are earnestly requested to spend at least six hours in the field selling our literature, and devoting the profits to the Big Week Fund. We also invite our churchmembers to make an offering at least equal to one day's earnings, so that this Fund may be greatly increased and the good work of entering new territory, starting new enterprises, may continue until the work is finished in all the earth. This is a call that should stir the heart of every believer. It is a work that demands our best efforts. None should fall short of the blessings that accrue from giving their best during the Big Week Campaign. That God may bless the efforts of His people here in Great Britain is our earnest prayer.

Big Week

A Soul-Winning Effort

WE are soon to launch another effort to win souls among the many millions of our own field. Big Week presents to us the opportunity as churchmembers and workers to go out into the highways and byways to find those who are longing for light. Many are burdened with cares and anxieties as a cart beneath sheaves, longing for light and hope, and desiring to know the meaning of the present-day events and what they ought to do.

The scattering of the printed page in this campaign "is the very work in which the Lord is calling many more to engage." A work in which hundreds should take part, carrying the light of the second advent through our cities, towns, and villages as presented in The Bible and the Wonders of Christ's Return. This new sixpenny magazine, prepared specially by the Press for the Missions Extension Campaign, should be sold everywhere in large numbers.

It is the will of God that many more of our members should spend some time each week in our literature work. If you will engage in this work in a systematic way He will give you souls for your hire. He calls it "missionary work of the highest order," a work equal to that of the Gospel minister, the very work that He would have His people do at this time. You will thus be taking the message where the living preacher cannot go.

God will develop this talent in you as you put it to use and may reveal to you that your place is in full-time colporteur work for Him. He has promised that literature distribution will revive and be carried forward with increasing success till the work is finished. This is a work that does not belittle the Gospel minister or Bible-worker, it is one of the best means of approach in these times of financial strain when seeking for those who sigh and cry for the abominations that are done in the land.

May the Lord grant that during this campaign many of the honest in heart will be sought out and brought into the fold of Christ, and that as a result of the funds gathered for the cause of foreign missions, many in heathen darkness will rejoice in the light.

O. M. DORLAND.

Lift Up Your Eyes on the Field

As one who knows the work both at home and in the mission field, I appeal to our people not to slacken their efforts for missions. As a denomination we owe far more than some may be able to realize to our interest in missions. Let us never take our eyes off the fields, or our hands from the plough, until our work is done.

True, the task is heavy, but what is life for but to consume our tasks—the heavier the better. True, we are not even one-tenth equal to the burden we are trying to lift, but the real remedy is to become ten times as valuable and valiant as we are. Such enrichment comes by faith. Few as we are, we can work wonders when we link our humanity with divinity. Then hard times become golden opportunities.

Let no one say that we do more for missions than we do for the home fields. Take Gendia Mission in East Africa. It has more baptized believers than the North England Conference, with nine strong churches. How many white workers? The solitary one, Brother F. L. Chapman, has had to leave the field on account of his wife's breakdown, and Brother F. A. Thomas is to be taken from his printing work to fill the vacancy and superintend 123 native schools, as well as the native evangelists. A native teacher is being put in charge of Kama-gambo Mission and another takes Kanyadoto Mission.

Heavy as our task may be, it is the families on the mission stations that feel the real weight of it. They are willing to endure the loneliness and the labour, because their reward is great. When they appeal for a dispensary to help them do better work for the sick and suffering, or for some teaching aid that will enable them more quickly to prepare native teachers to carry the Gospel to their people, or for some printing material by which a few workers may fill a whole country with the message, answer their appeal for Christ's sake.

Big Week is a good opportunity for big souls to do some big business for the Master. If we go about the task in faith, the Lord Himself will go with us.

The time has come for Him to enlighten all the dark places of the earth. He offers us the honour of being His agents in this glorious enterprise. Shall we refuse the privilege through unbelief? If He has to employ others they will have no ampler resources than we possess. Through whomsoever the work is accomplished, it will be done by faith. Why then take counsel with unbelief?

W. T. BARTLETT.

A Golden Opportunity

If you had the privilege of associating with all the Missionary Volunteers in the world in a great Young People's Congress, would you not thrill at the prospect. The inspiration of meeting with other Missionary Volunteers from all parts of the world would just set you tingling with joy. You would gladly join in the great procession as it winds its way to the assembly hall. You would readily respond to the appeal for consecration and for service.

The thought of having an active part with 100,000 other young people would just set you on fire with a zeal that could not be quenched. Space does not permit to tell of the wonderful times we would have together. However, in imagination we are all going to meet together for one week—the first week in May. During that week we are going to have a great Field Day. Just think!—100,000 Missionary Volunteers are going to storm the city. All are loading up with ammunition—The Bible and the Wonders of Christ's Return. Every home is to have the opportunity of receiving a copy of this excellent magazine. It is the magazine that will help us carry out our Missionary Volunteer pledge—"to finish the work of the Gospel in all the world." This field day will be a golden opportunity, for not only will Gospel literature be placed in the homes of the people, but the proceeds are to be devoted to the extension of missionary enterprises in all the world. Nearly 300 native evangelists are to be supported for one year. There are eighty-three in China, ninety-nine in Africa, seventy-two in India, six in Madagascar, nine in Japan, ten in Korea, fourteen in the Philippines, and six in Malaysia. One of these native evangelists from Nyassaland, Pastor James Malinki, has, by God's help, won eight hundred precious souls. What do you say, young people? Shall we try to sell sufficient literature during the first week in May to support, say, four of these evangelists? That would mean only £136 or an average of £34 each for a year. If 750 Missionary Volunteers respond and each sell only fifteen copies of Wonders each, we could do it. Even the Juniors might help by showing the magazine to their friends and relatives.

I can hear you all saying, "Yes, we'll help." Now then, all for it. Order your magazines. Select the territory to work. Choose the native evangelist you are going to help—in Africa or China or one of the other countries. Then all join in the procession, 100,000 of us, and help to swing this great literature week for Missions Extension to a triumphant finish. Missionary Volunteer Secretaries please obtain a report from all the young people so that we may have the complete figures from every society in order to see if we have reached our goal.

Now, all together—quick march!

Notes from the President

LET us live up to the name, Big Week, by raising a larger amount than last year, which was the best in our history. Let every member take part in this big effort to forward the work of our foreign missions.

THE depression in trade is making itself felt in our funds generally, but owing to the faithfulness of our members in sending us in specials, we are able to show a gain for the quarter of £275 in tithes; thus the conference remains in a good financial standing.

THOSE engaged in active efforts report a growing interest. Souls are deciding to obey all of God's commandments and unite with His remnant people in finishing the work. We are encouraged by the good news of Pastor R. A. Anderson's large meetings in North London, the work of Pastor R. Joyce in Norwich and Yarmouth, and the work in South London.

WE are pleased that the way has opened up for the Norwich Church to secure a property of its own, centrally located, at a very reasonable figure.

WE invite the WORKER family to pray for our colporteurs. Money is scarce and they need more wisdom than ever to meet the people and persuade them to buy religious books in these days of materialism.

How the Missions Extension Helped Korea

A LITTLE less than a year ago, while on my way to the Orient, the boat docked at Manila, and one of the brethren came on board and handed me a cablegram telling of the destruction of the Korean Publishing House by fire. This was indeed a shock, for a new addition to the printing plant had just been completed, and a beautiful new No. 3 Miehle press installed. A few weeks later, when I reached Korea and surveyed the blackened walls of what had been our Korean Publishing House, and examined the ruined machinery, the seriousness of the situation became more apparent. But a few days ago I was led to rejoice greatly when a letter came in from Manager Gillis, telling of the completion of a new publishing house, a church building with a seating capacity of five hundred, and a union conference office building, and to know that all these buildings, plus machinery equipment of the publishing house, have been made possible by the insurance on the former plant and the $2,000 gift provided from the Extension Fund overflow. Formerly, one building served as publishing house, conference office, and chapel, but the facilities were very inadequate for the needs. The present arrangement will prove of untold value in the enlarging of our work in Korea, and represents just one more of the miracles being performed through the Missions Extension Fund throughout the world.

A Difficult Field Soon to be Entered

PORTUGUESE East Africa is considered one of the hardest mission territories in the world, but the medical work, which has opened up many other difficult fields to our work, will be used as the "entering wedge" in this field, too. It is the only unentered territory of the African Division. Yet we have a number of Sabbath-keepers there who have been raised up as a result of efforts made by young men who have gone across the border into Nyassaland and have returned to Portuguese East Africa with the message and told it to their people. Last year the governor of one of the provinces in this territory was interviewed with reference to our beginning medical work for the natives, and he assured us that we would have no difficulty in obtaining permission to do so. The African Division Committee feels that our only hope of getting a real foothold in this difficult field is to open up medical work. They are, therefore, requesting help from the Extension Fund for a doctor's home. This request, to the extent of £390, has been granted by the General Conference Committee.

Girls' School at Addis Abeba

THE position of women in Abyssinia, as in most Oriental countries, is a very inferior one. They are the hewers of wood and drawers of water. They do the menial work about the huts and in the fields. Morals are low and often the women become the victims of unfaithful and unscrupulous partners. In our mission work we endeavour to reach all classes of people. We teach both men and women that there is no partiality with God. Such teaching is not without results, and we soon observe that men obtain a more exalted opinion of the position of women, and change their attitude toward them.

Soon after our work was started in Abyssinia we realized the need of doing something special for the girls. Nothing had ever been done in the way of educating the women except by mission societies. When we began to plan for establishing a school for girls, we had no money whatever, but we were made to realize that "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." An American physician who had travelled through Abyssinia and was greatly burdened over the needs of Abyssinian women, heard of our intention and need, and upon his return to America he began soliciting help from his fellow employees at the office where he worked. In this

Medical Needs

ONCE again the attention of our loyal people of the Big Week Campaign. For some years activities were quite largely our publishing but during the past year or two the plans have enterprises and medical needs, so that new objectives. Throughout the world we have printing plants as a result of the splendid schools are growing up, as well as dispensary mission lands.

Among other needs in our Division is largely from the medical standpoint. For in Nigeria, a country with many large cities and people and where they speak more than 200 languages has developed splendidly and we have a large corps of African workers and teachers. It is publishing remarkable achievements in His work was organized into a Union Mission with

Thus far, however, we have no institution where the brethren are doing their best to equip the cause of God; but with so many millions of both pagans and Moslems, we ought to have thought to start modestly with a dispensary hospital in that field.

We are already negotiating in the north mission station. This will be on an altitude. The district is what is known as the Bauchi large country. We are planning in coming forward some medical work. Both the Government quite a good deal to care for the people alone in the entire country in medical practitioners inadequate to meet the tremendous needs, and any medical assistance and thousands of victims are quite largely subjected to the impositions

Then there are the immense stretches of people, which constitutes to this cause activities. It was the privilege of the writers families from Scandinavia up to the French in their new sphere of labour. This is a beginning Division is concerned. There are more people in part of West Africa, and a very large number. As already stated we have just made a territory, but we should provide our mission a dispensary.

As one travels through this great country, he becomes conscious of their need of medical aid, and the dire need of the saving Gospel of Christ, and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon these people.

There is nothing to equal "Wonders" News. It will captivate you. Order immediately. Sixpence. Remember Big Week.

Plymouth Church Convention

WE arrived in Plymouth on Friday for the Church Convention which was being held from February 6th-8th, to find a full gathering awaiting us at the opening service that evening, which was conducted by Pastor F. W. Goodall.

The sun burst forth to greet us on Sabbath morning with the promise of a day of rich blessing, which indeed it proved to be.

We were glad to see so many members coming to Sabbath-school on time, and a very profitable hour was spent studying together.

Plymouth has found the church missionary service a real help in promoting the work and facilitating the gathering up of reports.

Pastor W. H. Meredith led out in the morning service with a very helpful and solemn address, following the lines of prophecy bringing us down to these last days, and we were all stirred to a greater resolve to work harder than ever for the salvation of souls.

An appeal was then made for members to take the 2,000 copies of the special Present Truth that had been ordered for the Tract Campaign.

Sabbath afternoon was spent in considering the new plans which have been laid to train our lay members for more effective work in the great harvest field. The conference secretary outlined the training courses for the adults and the Union young people's secretary the "Progressive Courses" for the youth of our church.

Sunday morning dawned with a lowering sky and driving rain, but our courage was strong as we set out for our mission field armed with a supply of ammunition with which to bombard

Plymouth. Fifteen hardy sons and daughters of Devon faced the inclement weather with us and we had a very good reception. We pray that the seed sown may bring forth fruit. Others went out in different parts and one brother who was visiting Plymouth whispered to us afterwards: "Twenty-five copies of Present Truth in twenty-five minutes—how's that?" Very good indeed! Yes, and only thirty houses, too. Visualize what could be done if we all went out with the same determination.

On Sunday afternoon we met in counsel with the church officers and were glad to see the eagerness with which the first class was arranged to study the Home Missionary Training Course for adult members. We look forward to some fine results from this ten weeks' study.

At 6.30 p.m. Pastor F. S. Jackson led out in an inspiring address dealing with the question of Religious Liberty, the advertised subject being, "What shall we do on Sunday?" We rejoiced to see a goodly number of visitors at that meeting.

The convention closed with a meeting of the Good Health League, and it was very encouraging to see so many officers present to hear of the progress that had been made and the plans for the future.

Much credit is due to all who helped to make the convention such a success, and we were glad that so many of our isolated members met with us, as well as members from the district churches.

We pray that God may richly bless these gatherings of His children and that He will strengthen us for greater service.

Notes from the President

THE tithe for March shows a drop of £161 as compared with the same month last year. This is doubtless due to a combination of passing circumstances, and we hope the next month will show a complete recovery, but the startling drop will suggest to our brethren and sisters how much depends on all being faithful in bringing in the tithe regularly. God's work is built up on the faithful, steady work and sacrifice of His people.

BROTHER F. W. JOHNSTON'S campaign in Manchester started on Easter Sunday. It was a late beginning for a public effort, but the difficulty in procuring the necessary funds prevented an earlier start. Now the evangelist will have to fight against the natural tendency of the people to spend their Sundays out of doors rather than in meetings. We ask all to pray earnestly that Brother Johnston may be divinely helped in his difficult task, and that a great victory may be gained. The Piccadilly Cinema has seating capacity for 2,500, and the management have built a special rostrum for Brother Johnston, in which they claim to have invested £100. It is the most central spot in Manchester. There were about 350 out in the afternoon, and twice that number in the evening. The collection for both services amounted to £9. The church-members in Manchester have distributed 30,000 handbills and are furnishing a strong force of ushers. Week-night meetings will be commenced on April 16th in a smaller hall.

BROTHER MADGWICK reports an excellent interest in Blackburn, where the collections are meeting the expense of the hall rent. Over fifty new names have been handed in for literature.

BROTHER J. E. BELL reports four new Sabbath-keepers from his small effort in Lincoln, and Brother Coppock writes of a similar number who have taken their stand in West Hartlepool and expect to go forward in baptism. There is a good prospect of still others.

BROTHER G. D. KING is planning a baptism within a week or two. He is moving from his cinema to a public school, and 200 of his cinema audience applied for seats in the school meetings. A number of these are already attending the Sabbath afternoon services. W. T. BARTLETT.

Church Officers' Convention at Newcastle-on-Tyne

THE Advent Hall, Newcastle, was the centre of attraction for the members of the "Tyne" churches—Middlesbrough, West Hartlepool, and Darlington—during the church officer's convention week-end, February 28th to March 1st, and we were greatly privileged to have valuable assistance from the British Union head-quarters and from the North England Conference.

In his opening remarks on Friday evening Pastor W. T. Bartlett brought vividly to our minds the purpose of the convention—to train those holding office to carry successfully the responsibilities laid upon them. Pastor W. H. Meredith stressed the importance of preparation for efficiency in every department.

Pastor J. Harker enlarged upon the importance of the prayer meeting. Referring to the past experience of the Newcastle Church, it was noted that many of the stalwart workers in the cause were actually prayed into the church.

The Sabbath-school exercises the next morning were enthusiastically conducted by Brother J. M. Howard, and each of the visiting brethren gave valuable assistance in the class study. The preaching service was devoted chiefly to the work of the Sabbath-school, and Pastor Harker offered many helpful suggestions. The development of an A.1 Sabbath-school was outlined by Pastor Meredith, along with the consequences of a poor school.

At the afternoon meeting Pastor Bartlett gave a brief outline of the work of each church-member.

Pastor Harker spoke upon the words, "Follow Me," and "Learn of Me." As we "abide in Him" fruits will be seen in our lives.

Pastor Meredith stressed the importance of Bible readings, missionary visits, etc.

On Saturday evening Brother Howard took the work for the young people as his theme, basing his remarks upon an old Grecian saying, "Let him that hath the light pass it on."

Pastor Harker referred to the Home Missionary Worker's Course, designed to give each member a ten weeks' practical course of training for home missionary work.

A devotional service was conducted on Sunday morning by Pastor Bartlett, followed by another convention session.

We hope that as a result of these special meetings, the various churches and companies represented will rally together and fulfil the tasks which were allotted to each individual member.

As bands are organized for service, and all take an active part in them, 1931 will prove a record year of spiritual advancement.

S. NISBET.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vol. 34 No. 8.

EDITED BY A. S. MAXWELL

April 17, 1931.

Note: Copy for the next issue must reach us not later than Thursday, April 23rd.

THIS issue is devoted to the interests of our foreign mission work. The raising of funds for expansion in other lands is a matter of great importance. We are all proud of our vast foreign mission interests, and rejoice as the "advance guard" presses on into new countries year by year. It is a source of satisfaction to us all that, while other societies are curtailing their work, ours is always increasing. All of which, of course, brings with it responsibilities, and should kindle a desire zealously to assist in every campaign that is planned to sustain and promote this world-wide movement.

THEREFORE let us all do our best with the Big Week effort, seeing in it, as Pastor Dorland suggests in his article, not only a means of helping our foreign missions, but also an aid to developing the work in Britain.

IN the next issue we hope to give considerable space to the work in London. Here, at the heart of the Empire, a wonderful work is being carried on by Pastor Roy Anderson and his band of workers. It is a joy and inspiration to attend the meetings. A week ago 800 persons stayed after the service to take part in the Lord's Supper. Never before has anything quite like this been seen in this great city. Here is a work to be encouraged and supported to the utmost.

LAST Sabbath Pastor Anderson stirred the Stanborough Park Church to the depths with a recital of God's providences in connection with his work. "Lift up your eyes," he cried, "for London's harvest is waiting to be reaped." He told from personal experience of the large sums used to evangelize the six millions of Australia and compared this with the amounts available for the eight millions of the world's metropolis, appealing for wider vision on these tremendously important matters. And "our hearts burned within us as he talked with us by the way."

If only the work could be strengthened in Britain, and especially in London, how much more help could be given to foreign missions! Forty thousand members in Britain would lead to amazing developments. At home scores of conference and institutional problems would be solved. Abroad great new enterprises could be attempted. We do not hesitate to say that the greatest need in our movement to-day is for a stronger work in Britain. Any movement that is weak at the heart of the British Empire must be handicapped everywhere. Strength here means courage and confidence everywhere. Therefore develop Britain!

Our attention has been called to the fact that the statement credited to Mr. Gladstone, published in Present Truth No. 8, is inaccurate, and our workers are advised to note that it should not be used in connection with the Sunday question.

IMMEDIATELY Parliament begins to discuss the matter of Sunday laws we shall present our petition to the Prime Minister. All forms signed or partly signed should therefore be dispatched to headquarters without delay.

WE have been asked by Brother Howard to state that an important announcement concerning the North England camp will appear in the next issue.
