

Notes from the Union President

It will be remembered that some time ago an article appeared in the MISSIONARY WORKER calling for special gifts for the work of our college at Newbold. We have been very anxious for some time to strengthen our industrial work so as to provide facilities to enable more of our young men and women to earn part of their expenses while taking their training at our educational institution. We feel very glad for the amounts which have already come in, and we appreciate very much indeed the kindly interest that our believers have in our college at Newbold. The amount required, however, has by no means been reached, and we are wondering if others who have been considering sending in special gifts would perhaps do so by the end of November.

ENCOURAGING word has reached us from all parts of the Union concerning attendances in connection with the evangelistic campaigns which have just been started. In some centres the attendances are very large, and we feel glad that there is such a good response on the part of the people. Quite a large number of names have been secured, and the people are showing a deep interest in the truth of God. Let us continue to pray for our evangelists and Bible-workers, and pray also for the people as they learn their way into the message. Let us also remember week by week, in a very practical way, the little evangelistic boxes, for these play a large part in making possible these special campaigns.

OUR net gain in membership for the nine months is 128, but information which has been received since the first of October brings word of quite a number of baptisms which have already taken place during the last quarter of the year. Some of these baptisms have been large, and quite a number of others are in prospect. We rejoice in these additions to our membership and are very happy indeed to welcome so many new believers to join with us in fellowship in the Advent movement.

THE statistical reports for the nine months concerning tithes and offerings show that there has been an increase over 1934 for the same period of between eight and nine per cent. This will mean much to our far-flung missions, and also to the work in the homeland. We are very happy to pass on our mission offerings to the needy fields across the seas, and to see the increase in our own tithes, which has enabled us to start in on such a large evangelistic programme this year.

RECENTLY it became necessary to make a change in the secretary-treasurer of the South England Conference. Brother H. D. Clarke, who has been connected with our work for so many years, not only as Union treasurer, but also as treasurer of the South England Conference, has been indisposed for some time. In fact, a few months back, he was very sick and had to lay down his work. Temporary help was obtained, however, in the hope that Brother Clarke would get better within two or three months and so be able to resume his work. The doctors who have had charge of his case tell us, however, that Brother Clarke's condition of health, while somewhat improved, is such that it will be at least another six months before he would be able to take over any work of responsibility. When this word came, and realizing the importance of the work in the South England Conference, the committee felt that it would have to make definite arrangements for this work to be carried in a regular way. After giving careful study to the question, the Union Committee recommended Brother A. H. Thompson for this office. Brother Thompson has been caring very efficiently for the treasury work of our four missions here at head-quarters. The South England Conference Committee considered the question and voted to appoint Brother Thompson for the work of secretary-treasurer in South England. This will mean a few other changes. Brother Carey will take over the work of secretary-treasurer for the missions, but will be given special help in the office to enable him to do this. Brother W. G. Baldry, who has been at the sanitarium for several years, will come to the Union office for this work, and Brother J. Craven, who has been taking special work along accountancy lines while following his vocation as compositor at the publishing house, will take over the work in the sanitarium office.

LET us remember Brother Clarke at the throne of grace and pray that the Lord may give him a speedy return to health and strength. W. E. READ.

South England M.V. Camp

"To the A.Y.M.V. Camp"—I wonder what that means," said an unknown voice reading the inscription written on a little arrow placed beneath the hedge of a narrow road.

"Sounds like one of those religious affairs," answered his friend, "quite all right for those that are inclined that way," and without further thought they passed on. Little did they know what they were missing!

For four miles the road had been on a steady incline leading up and up from the lovely south-coast seaside resort, Hastings. With happy feelings you followed the direction of the arrow, ran down a rough lane lined by trees, and arrived at Fairlight Farm. There was still another field to cross, one more gate to open and then (what a beat your heart gave!). The camp in all its beauty came in sight. Numbers of perfectly-pitched tents were arranged in a large, gently sloping field. The sparkling sea lay beyond, stretching for miles and miles until it eventually kissed the cloudless sky along the horizon. France was over there somewhere; the camp magazine said so. Little white yachts stood out here and there against the perfect blue, while away toward the east stretched green-clad hills. On the other side of the camp was the mysterious Fairlight Glen. What an attraction it seemed to hold! The trees looked as if they were beckoning you to come and explore its hidden beauty, the moss-covered glades, and cool, clear stream rippling over slippery stones on its way to the Channel.

So all this was the M.V. camp; and here in these marvellous surroundings we were to be for two whole blissful weeks. Our long year of waiting since the last camp seemed amply rewarded; nothing could have been better. A few thought a little differently, though, when the hot sun went down and the night drew on. Was it all right, after all, sleeping in a tent? Surely that straw would be awfully prickly. What happened if it rained? Was Mr. Johnson quite sure that it wasn't going to be windy in the night? Were the tent pegs far enough in the ground? And those earwigs, having a fine time over the ground sheet, didn't really crawl into one's ears when asleep, did they? The neighbouring field was just full of fierce-looking cows, but they couldn't possibly get into our field, could they?

Eventually, however, we were all stowed away in our respective tents while Mr. Johnson went hither and thither seeing that all were comfortable and happy. He must have heard a few life stories that night! Some of the tents had tongues that didn't stop until the early hours of the morning. Even then, long before the rising bell, they started off again. It is surprising what one finds to talk about at an M.V. camp!

At 6.30 a.m. the loud clanging of the bell awoke all those who did manage to sleep, but you didn't realize how snug and comfortable the bed was until the time for getting up arrived. The tide was not suitable for a morning dip so we had to wash—rather a blow. After our "Morning Watch" we were ready for the welcome breakfast prepared for us. And what meals we did have during that fortnight! Matron Watson certainly knew how to cope with the camper's appetite. Never once did we regret the penny fine we had to pay if we were late!

After morning worship we had our tents to tidy. What luggage some of us had! Blankets were folded, cases closed, shoes arranged neatly and valances rolled up, all before Mr. Johnson and Matron Watson came on their round of inspection, which consisted in giving subtle glances with their eagle eyes into every corner and awarding the carefully-guarded marks that each tent deserved. Two tents were in almost perfect condition every day, numbers 1 and 19.

Time and space would not permit all the events of this year's camp to be written here. There was our 100 miles' tour that we shall never forget, when five coaches carried us off to still more beauties of nature and places of historical interest. There was the wonderful cruise in a pleasure steamer, right along the coast by Beachy Head, and the delightful hike back to camp in the evening through the pelting rain, finishing up in the marquee by singing choruses to drown the peals of thunder. We shall always remember our visits to Hastings Castle, the caves, and dark dungeons. There were the happy times round the camp fires and then the concert evening (when hidden talents in vocal solos especially were discovered!). Scrambling down the cliffs for bathing will always stand out in the memories of some—and then scrambling back again. Most of us found out that we were not so young as we used to be! There were the stirring open-air meetings on Hastings beach. What ministers this denomination is going to have in the near future!

There were the helpful talks that Pastors Peterson, Goodall, and Watson gave us, and the timely injunctions from Mr. Johnson. Sabbaths at camp will always stand us in good stead when we meet with the troubles of this world. Pastor Anderson showed us more clearly the way to Christ, and at such times more blessings were received than the speakers realized. Then there were Sabbath afternoons when we sang choruses or walked along the coast, resting on the bracken-covered cliffs enrapt with the glorious sea and warm sunshine.

Is there anything to beat M.V. camp life? A thousand times, "No." Senior or junior, they all say the same. Ask Miss Brewer how the juniors enjoyed it! She certainly had her hands full and we dread to think of what some of the younger M.V.'s would have been into without her.

Sometimes even now that camp is over we can shut our eyes and see that wonderful fortnight over again, the happy tents in the field on the cliff, with that glorious full moon sending across the dark sea her shivering path of silver light, stretching from our camp ground to heaven. We can hear our capable camp master calling,

"All in tent No. 1?" And the reply, "Yes, Mr. Johnson."

"All in tent No. 19?"

"Yes, Mr. Johnson."

"All in tent No. 32?"

"Yes, Mr. Johnson."

What a model camp!

MONICA DRUITT.

"One for yourself and two for your friends."

opening meeting of the series to listen to the message Pastor C. V. Anderson had for all on the subject, "My Influence."

Quite a good number of young people gathered together at nine o'clock on Sabbath morning for a special prayer meeting. We were admonished by the speaker, Mr. H. T. Johnson, to look up, for we would surely see the Captain of the Lord's host ready to help and strengthen us as did Joshua in the time of old.

At the 11.15 a.m. preaching service over three hundred were present. We were favoured once again with the ministry of Pastor C. V. Anderson. The title of his address was, "I am Young Only Once, Hence My Decision." Among others, the experience of Joseph was cited. He must have made this title his motto when he was brought face to face with great temptation. The standard of the Advent youth to-day is the same standard that Joseph maintained. We have no room for the modern moral standards. It is our privilege as Christians to act as Joseph did, and in view of the fact that we are young only once, we will keep our bodies and minds pure and clean and say farewell to everything that is sinful.

We read in Hebrews 4:15 that Christ was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin. The same power which enabled Him to do this is ours for the asking to-day. We can live the rest of our lives without sin, by God's help. If we make our decision for God, He will stand by us all the way. Youth is the time for great decisions, and the call comes to us again to-day more clearly and appealingly than ever before, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." May no man despise our youth, but may we be an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

The Sabbath afternoon meeting, conducted by Pastor R. S. Joyce, president of the South England Conference, took the form of a testimony meeting. An exceptionally large number, especially of young people, took part in speaking a few words of praise to Jesus. The burden of most of those who testified was that the Lord would help and strengthen them that they might win others to the cause of Christ and be of service to Him.

The numbers attending all these meetings were really most encouraging. Many young people had come in from the provinces in order to be present at all the gatherings of the week-end. Practically every society in the south of England was represented by one or more delegates.

At this juncture we would like to thank the leaders of the London societies for the plentiful supply of food which they prepared for refreshment between the Sabbath afternoon and evening meetings for those who were a long way from home. This kindly gesture was very greatly appreciated.

The same evening, Pastor R. A. Anderson, by special request, gave his lantern lecture on astronomy. This certainly was most interesting and helped us to realize something of the might and power of our Creator. How great must be His love that He should care for each of us who is as dust in the balance, when viewing His marvellous handiwork in the starry heavens.

On Sunday morning, at nine o'clock, a number of earnest seekers after God met for prayer. Pastor A. K. Armstrong, minister of the Holloway Church, led out. He took as his main text, John 1:16, "Of His fullness have all we received, and grace for grace." Our supply of grace is given daily. God does not give us of His grace sufficient for the week, but day by day we must go to Him to have a renewal of this grace. This helps us to realize something of our dependence upon God of whose fullness we have received.

From 10.15 a.m. onward, special meetings were held for young people's leaders and delegates. Pastor C. V. Anderson gave a Bible study dealing with some of the things which hinder a good Christian experience in our young people.

Following this most helpful Bible study, the councils took place. These continued during the rest of the morning and afternoon. A number of topics were assigned to various young people beforehand, and they were required to spend five minutes giving their views on the subject assigned them. After this had been done, all were free to take part in a general discussion with a view to building up the work of the Missionary Volunteer Department. Some of the subjects chosen were:

How to Conduct and Vary Y.P.S. Meetings.

Open-Air Work.

The Social Side of Young People's Work.

Junior Work—Leadership, etc.

Young People's Offerings.

Should Young People Report Their Activities?

Reading Course and Morning Watch—Their Value.

The Benefits of Camps and Rallies to Our Young People.

All entered most enthusiastically into the discussions which followed each of these topics and were greatly benefited and instructed thereby. As the outcome of this series of gatherings the following resolution was passed:

FEELING thankful for the blessings received during this week-end, and

REALIZING the great task before us in the Missionary Volunteer cause as leaders as well as the high privilege and opportunities in working for young people,

Resolved:

1. That we reconsecrate our lives to the task of winning our young people.
2. That we, with zeal, endeavour to apply in our local society the suggestions given us in this council

Thanks are due to all who in any way helped to make the meetings of the week-end such a success. We have in mind the soloists, musicians, those who prepared the programme, the hosts and hostesses who so kindly entertained young people from the provinces in their homes over the week-end, and any who may have played just a small part behind the scenes. The Lord will not allow any service rendered in His name to go unrewarded when He shall come to make up His jewels. May we each be faithful until that great day.

JANET HYDE.

The Staveley Health and Welfare Society

THE Staveley Health and Welfare Society is really a part of the Staveley Company which was raised up by a tent effort in the summer of 1933 by Brother Munson, assisted by Brother Walton and Miss Tesh. There was a burden upon the hearts of the sisters to do something for the poor and needy, and only a suggestion was needed to bring about the inauguration of the society in April of this year.

The ten sisters meet every Monday afternoon from 3 to 4.30 p.m. to repair, remodel, and renovate garments and materials donated to the society for the necessitous poor. While these sisters are busy sewing, instruction is given by various speakers on health, cookery, or Bible subjects.

Many pitiful cases have been assisted. One family of six, practically destitute, was given clothes, boots, and parcels of food. Another home was cheered with a parcel of baby clothes when twins arrived.

When needy cases are reported, two sisters volunteer to investigate the circumstances and report to the society. In so doing they come into contact with the people in their homes with a view to following up with missionary work.

During the first six months of its existence, the society has distributed upward of 200 garments and a score of pairs of boots and shoes, as well as several parcels of food. There is even a pram waiting to meet a need.

It may be of interest to others contemplating the formation of such a society to know how we procured the garments, because some might feel reluctant to ask. We had a circular letter duplicated and handed out to the sisters who gave them to shops and well-to-do families in the district and very soon parcels of clothing were forthcoming.

SPECIAL WEEK OF PRAYER ISSUE OF THE "REVIEW AND HERALD"

We have secured a few extra copies of the Week of Prayer Review and Herald and these can be had at the special price of threepence each while they last.

ERRATA

Owing to pressure of work in certain departments, three unfortunate mistakes occurred in our last issue.

Apologies are due to the Misses Clements and Mason regarding their scholarship achievements. The figures should have read:

Miss Clements (two-thirds) £63 12 0
Miss Mason (two-thirds) £86 2 6

More apologies to Brother Kinman for failing to credit him with the "Last Dozen Don'ts for Colporteurs."

Incidentally, also, a gift of £5 was acknowledged twice. That, of course, may be taken as an expression of the depth of our gratitude.
Ed.
